

The City of Glendale does a great job of keeping the city website fresh with the most current and useful content. If you have not visited the Office of the Mayor pages of Glendale's website recently, I encourage you to take a look at some of the new features that have recently been added. With changes to the format and content of www.glendaleaz.com/mayor, I am writing to provide information to help you locate information that is now available to you.

You will find the links to my various pages sorted under categories at the top and along the left hand-side of my webpage. Under the Press Office category, you will find many new pages that may be of interest to you. A couple of these new pages include:

Editorials and Commentary

To visit the new Editorials and Commentary page (Click Here). Editorials and commentary that appear on this page are in response to questions proposed by community members or about topics of interest to Glendale residents.

Videos and Presentations

You can now watch videos of important events and informative programs right on our website. Listed below are a couple of the shows and presentations that are now available.

- On August 10, 2011, the Glendale Chamber of Commerce hosted a forum that featured local, state, national and tribal leaders discussing the impact of a proposed Tohono O'odham reservation in Glendale. (Click Here) to watch that presentation in its entirety.
- For the past year I have been participating in "West Valley Forums" where I and other west valley mayors discuss issues facing the west valley. These forums are hosted by Mike Ryan, Vice President and General Manager of Community Newspapers for the Arizona Republic and they air on Glendale Channel 11. (Click Here) to watch these forums on the Videos and Presentations page.

It is exciting to see technology make it so much easier to share information with our constituents. I encourage you to continue to monitor my webpages as we continue to provide new information and helpful content.

I would appreciate your feedback about my featured webpages and hope you will provide me with your ideas as to how I may share information in a more efficient and effective manner.

Thank you taking the time to read my “Glendale Bulletins.” Please contact me at (623) 930-2260 or mayorscruggs@glendaleaz.com, if you have any comments or questions. I strive to provide the most timely information and best possible service to you, the citizens of Glendale. I sincerely appreciate your feedback.
