GLENDALE TV STATION EARNS ANOTHER EMMY AWARD NOMINATION

GLENDALE, Ariz. – Considered one of the highest honors in broadcasting, the Rocky Mountain Emmy Awards have once again nominated Glendale 11 TV to receive their prestigious recognition. The city's television station was nominated for its coverage of Glendale's festivals.

This is the 23rd time in six years that Glendale 11 has been nominated for an Emmy, an award that recognizes and rewards excellence in television broadcasting. For this nomination, Glendale 11 competed against TV stations, production houses and advertising agencies from five different states.

"This nomination is two-fold; it represents the talented team at Glendale 11 and the quality work we provide residents 24/7, but also highlights the city's first-class festivals," said Laurie Berg Sapp, Station Manager for Glendale 11. "From broadcasting council meetings to interview talk shows and documentaries, Glendale 11 continues to provide programming that is relevant and informational to our viewers."

Glendale 11's nomination showcased a compilation of vignettes featuring the city's signature festivals including Glendale Glitters, Glitter and Glow, the Chocolate Affaire and the Jazz and Blues Festival. TV programs and individual stories featuring the festivals can be seen on Glendale 11, online at www.glendaleaz.com/video and on the city's You Tube Channel at www.youtube.com/myglendale11.
